

Join us on Thursday June 8th as Street's Hope and Callie's Backyard Foundation present the Colorado premiere of
I AM JANE DOE.

This film chronicles the battle that several mothers across the country are waging on behalf of their middle school daughters who were trafficked for commercial sex on Backpage. The film opened theatrically last month to an avalanche of press:

"a gripping legal thriller" (Esquire)
"a powerful call to action" (The Los Angeles Times)
"a viscerally emotional case" (The Washington Post)
"especially impressive... a powerful piece of work" (Elle)
"striking... powerful" (The Film Journal)

I AM JANE DOE has captured not only the attention of film critics, but the popular press as well (e.g. The New Yorker, Esquire, Cosmo, Vogue, NBC Nightly News, a three-page spread in People), providing a remarkable opportunity for culture shift, impact, and awareness, particularly with respect to the under-reported crime of child sex-trafficking.

The film has catalyzed extraordinary activity, including the introduction of new legislation in Congress (on a bipartisan basis) to address the issues in the film.
